

Eternity Connection

Disclaimer for Spiritual Healing

Spiritual healing is a form of experiment, no claims are made and results cannot be guaranteed. The purpose of this form of healing is to direct divine healing energies from the Divine Source to you. The medium is only a conduit for these healing energies. If you have not previously received a spiritual healing in the past, please note that you may experience things that they have not experienced before; if you are feeling particularly vulnerable or frightened, please let your healer know this before the healing begins.

Please note that all service providers with the Eternity Connection adhere to a Community Covenant. Your spiritual healer cannot diagnose medical conditions and cannot offer medical advice. The effects of spiritual healing will continue for some time after this healing session.

If it becomes clear within the first five minutes of a healing that a satisfactory connection has not been established by the healer; then, either the healer or you may terminate the healing and there will be no charge for the healing. By allowing the healing to continue after this point, you have deemed to accept that the healing is satisfactory.

In agreeing to receive a healing you are also certifying that you are voluntarily seeking these services for yourself and that you understand that spiritual healing is complementary and not a substitute for traditional medical treatment. You also certify that, regardless of your experience of spiritual healing, you will not change your recommended course of medical treatment without first consulting your medical practitioner.